

CORKEN STEEL PRODUCTS

WHO WE ARE

The Corken Steel Products Company has been in business since 1955. The company has experienced sustained growth over the years because of a business philosophy established and engrained in our employees by the Corken family.

The Corken philosophy is simple - provide our customers with a consistently high level of service, each time - every time.

Our goal is to outperform our competition by continuously challenging ourselves to improve everyday as we try to be the best supply house in the business. As with any company, the key to our success is our people. We have a tremendously talented staff of dedicated people who treat our customers with concern and care. Our employees truly believe in the "Corken Good Service" philosophy.

The Corken Steel Products Company was founded as a wholesale distributor of metal roofing and rain-carrying products and building products. During the following years, the company expanded into heating and air condition equipment and all related products.

Today, the company is comprised of three separate divisions—Heating and Air Conditioning, Roofing, and Sheet Metal Fabrication—operating out of fifteen facilities including the distribution center which opened in November 2005, the newest branch opening in southern Louisville in 2019.

This expanded family of divisions is an organization comprised of many people with different skills and talents. Each has an important part to play in the overall operation of business, and each has a responsibility to help the company fulfill its mission.

Every employee is expected to work effectively for the company so that the company will be able to provide well for its employees. It is the express intention of Corken Steel Products management that the compensation, working conditions, benefits, and equipment provide the employees with attractive employment packages that enhance the abilities of the employees, the value of their work, and the enjoyment of their association with the company.
